

ABSTRACT

Pick pools on sports events may be created via a server which is accessible by a plurality of different users over a packet-switched digital data network. Pools
5 allow a number of users in a particular pool to compete against one another, with "winners" being those who make the most correct selections regarding a predetermined number of sporting events. An improved system and method for implementing such pools is provided.